

Missing Fliers Found Dead in Pennsylvania

Dense Forest Near Milford Held Bodies of Aviators Who Left Buffalo Monday for Curtiss Field—Bodies Almost Torn to Pieces —Gasoline Tank of Plane Apparently Ex- ploded.

New York, Aug. 30 (AP).—The mangled bodies of M. M. Merrill and Edwin M. Ronne, missing commercial fliers, were found 80 feet from their wrecked plane at daybreak today, according to word received by F. H. Russell, of the Curtiss flying service.

Their plane—a Curtiss Falcon owned by Colonel Charles E. Lindbergh—crashed and exploded in the wilderness six miles from the town of Milford, Pa.

The wreck was sighted by fellow fliers yesterday after the greatest airplane search in the United States. There was no place for a plane to make a landing near the spot, so the fliers landed at Milford and Port Jervis, N. Y., where parties of searchers were organized.

Starting before daybreak, a party led by Charles "Casey" Jones, veteran commercial pilot and associate of Merrill, reached the wreck at 6:30 a. m., and airplane piloted by Raymond L. Kitchman of the Curtiss flying service guided them to the place.

Bodies Not Burned, Plane in Bits. Kitchman in his report to Russell said the bodies were found 80 feet from the wreck. They were not burned, he said.

The plane was wrecked and had evidently crashed into the trees at a terrific speed. It was dashed to bits. The spot is inaccessible and the bodies will be packed out today, Russell said. Ronne's body will be shipped to Buffalo, where he was manager of the municipal airport. Merrill's body will be brought to New York by train.

Woman Gave Clue. A Milford woman—Miss Kraft—gave them first clue to the fliers' fate, Russell said. Following a radio appeal broadcast through WEAF, Miss Kraft telephoned that five persons in Milford and the vicinity had heard a crash followed by an explosion shortly after an airplane had been sighted over the town.

Russell notified "Casey" Jones, his chief pilot, who with two planes started a search of the mountainous hills. They followed closely Miss Kraft's directions and found the plane.

Flier Failed to Sight Bodies. Although Jones flew very close to the wreck he failed to sight the bodies. He and his party returned to Milford and immediately started searching parties.

All the New York district planes engaged in the search were expected back today from Ithaca, where the search was first centered. The Falcon plane was sighted there on its way from Buffalo to Curtiss Field.

The Curtiss Flying Service will be inoperative Friday out of respect to Merrill's memory, Russell said.

A Faghtlied pilot who flew over the scene reported the ground and trees around the wreck had been burned, indicating that the plane had caught fire after crashing.

Bodies Found in Forest. Milford, Pa., Aug. 30 (AP).—The bodies of M. M. Merrill and Edwin M. Ronne, missing aviators, were found today by Arthur McCarthy, according to a telephone call from Pond Eddy. The bodies were located about six miles from Milford in the heart of an almost impenetrable forest. McCarthy said that the gasoline tank of the plane which the two men were flying from Buffalo to New York had apparently exploded.

The bodies were almost torn to pieces, he said. McCarthy was one of several scores of men who had been combing the woods since the wreckage was sighted from an airplane yesterday evening.

Darkness Balked Night Search. Darkness balked the search last night but with the dawn it was renewed in earnest. Many citizens of this old county seat on the banks of the Delaware—the home of former Governor Pinchot—joined in the quest.

Most of the searchers were familiar with the sparsely inhabited section near Pond Eddy, as they had asked the tiny mountain trout brooks and hunted the dense pine woods for deer and bear in the autumn.

Region Sparingly Settled. Three tree-covered mountains near Pond Eddy rise precipitously from the west bank of the Delaware river. Here and there are a few farmhouses on the highways. In the region where the bodies were found there are only the faint trails of overgrown wood roads, used by timber men in dragging out logs in the winter.

The only means of communication with Pond Eddy from here is over a single telephone wire. The county coroner and other town officials were notified and prepared to go to Pond Eddy for their official investigation.

Bodies Found at Dawn. Pond Eddy, Pa., Aug. 30 (AP).—The bodies of the two aviators, M. M. Merrill and Edwin M. Ronne, were found at dawn today in the

Curtis Attacks Tariff Stand

Says if Democrats Are Returned to Power Nothing Can Be Expected of Them But Immediate Low Revision Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 30 (AP).—The Democratic tariff policy, particularly as related to agriculture, was attacked by Senator Curtis, the Republican Vice Presidential nominee, in a speech here today before members of the National Grange.

He declared that if the Democrats are returned to power nothing could be expected from them "but an immediate low revision of the tariff" and said that many Democratic leaders already had committed themselves to such a policy.

"In his address of acceptance last week, the Democratic candidate for President indicated that he regarded the Underwood-Simmons act of 1913 as the model he will follow if he is elected. Let us study for a moment the effect of that tariff, which the Democratic party promised would in no way injure legitimate business."

"A few months after the law was enacted the tariff began to spell disaster. Tens of thousands of wage earners were thrown out of employment as factories closed down in Pennsylvania and other great industrial states of the country. An official canvass in Philadelphia showed 200,000 unemployed. New York city labor organizations estimated 472,000 men and women either out of work or working part time there. In Chicago 190,000 were thrown out of work."

"If one reads the Houston tariff plank carefully, it is easy to see that instead of being new, something revolutionary, something a step forward in the direction of a protective tariff policy, it is practically word for word the 1924 plank in that it pledges the party again to the enactment of a tariff that will contain 'duties that will permit effective competition, insure against monopoly, and at the same time produce a fair revenue for the support of the government.'"

Hoover Arrives Ahead of Helpers

Washington, Aug. 30 (AP).—Descending upon his new general headquarters at an early morning hour, Herbert Hoover today caught his own staff by surprise and was deep in work when the members arrived.

William J. Donovan, assistant to the attorney general, and George Barr Baker, of New York, were the first callers. They accompanied him on his trans-continental trip and are among his closest advisers.

After a conference with them, Hoover took time out to inspect his new quarters and found that much remained to be done before they would be in complete working order. Telephone linemen were all over the place installing instruments while carpenters and scrubbers also were busy.

Hoover's most important engagements today were with William H. Hill, chairman of the New York Hoover-Curtis committee, and Edwin Macchold, newly-named chairman of the New York state central committee.

From these two visitors Hoover sought additional information with respect to the campaign in the east in which he personally is to participate with at least two addresses, one in New York city and the other in New England, with Boston as the logical point of delivery.

wilderness near this little town by five residents of Milford.

The body of one of the men was in the wreckage. The other body was found in the brush fifteen feet ahead, where it had been hurled when the Curtiss Falcon plane crashed. There was no fire, rescuers said. The plane was smashed to pieces.

Before it crashed the plane, owned by Colonel Charles Lindbergh, tore the top from a tall pine tree 400 yards from where it plunged nose down into the ground.

The motor and fuselage of the plane were buried in a hole, five feet deep and twenty feet wide. When it hit the plane broke in half. The wreckage of the rear half was found a hundred yards ahead of the motor. In this was one of the bodies.

The bodies, on orders from the coroner who visited the scene, were not touched. An undertaker was on his way to the scene to prepare them for removal.

Hoover Favors Fewer Speeches

Resists Efforts to Have Him Map Out Extensive Speaking Program — Wants Campaign Conducted on as Small a Budget as Possible.

Washington, Aug. 30 (AP).—Herbert Hoover is resisting efforts to have him map out an extensive speaking program during the remaining nine weeks of his campaign for the presidency.

Deferring his next excursion from Washington until around the middle of September, he has reiterated to advisers his own desire to limit his public platform appearances to three or four between that time and his next westward trek late in October.

From his experiences during his last journey to his California home, the Republican candidate realizes that he will be obliged to make a number of addresses when he sets out for home to vote and will reserve his energies for a vigorous drive at that time.

Naturally, he has not yet figured on the time and place for each speech during that trip, nor has he decided by which route he will return. Those questions will be decided largely on the basis of conditions in the three sectors at the time.

Conduct Campaign on Small Budget. Economical in his own efforts and expense, Hoover also is adhering to his originally announced plan to have the whole Republican campaign conducted on as small a budget as is possible. To that end those in charge of financial affairs have initiated conferences with chiefs of the various divisions for a study of expense estimates and a paring down wherever possible.

Hoover has insisted on what he terms a "modest" organization, but he also wants an efficient one and believes that the machinery set up by his colleagues is efficient. There has been more decentralization than customary in a campaign, with the state organizations looked to for a good share of the work.

Big Hookup for Speeches. Radio expenses in campaigns are becoming heavier with each campaign, but it is stated officially that the budget for this will be held down within low limits. Each time that Hoover makes a prepared address arrangements will be made for an extensive hookup of stations, and the principal party speakers also will use the radio in carrying their addresses within a comparatively small circle.

Hoover's friends assert that the nominee is well pleased with the situation generally, as he has found it from reports of leaders and he holds that not within 30 years has the party been so united as during the present campaign.

Party Splits of Past Years. In this connection attention is called that four years ago there was a party split with the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket in the field; that in 1920 there were defections from the Republican party; that in 1916 there was a break in Republican ranks, with the "Progressives" going over to the Democrats, while in 1912 there was the split between Taft and Roosevelt.

While there have been minor instances of defection in the northwest, taken as a whole, the nominee believes the party is united and is convinced that the organizations set up are doing a splendid work in that section.

He is giving personal attention to the situation in the east and called for conferences today William H. Hill, chairman of the Hoover-Curtis organization in New York state, and Edwin Macchold, newly elected chairman of the New York State Republican Committee.

FINDING OF TWO BODIES
REVEALS AIR TRAGEDY

Port Townsend, Wash., Aug. 30 (AP).—The bodies of two passengers washed ashore in Discovery Bay here yesterday revealed the fate of the seven persons aboard the Canadian Airways tri-motored plane which plunged into the Strait of Juan de Fuca in a dense fog Saturday.

The bodies, wrapped in wreckage of the plane, were those of Mrs. Alexander MacCallum Scott of London, whose husband, a former member of Parliament, also was a passenger, and Florio Corvelli of East Orange, N. J., an official coast guard report said. Search for the other bodies and the plane would be continued, the report said.

Only Log Jam Saved Napanoch From Destruction

Huge Pulp Wood Logs, Washed Down Stream by Flood, Lodged Near Pulp Mill and Directed Water, Which Cut New Channel and Saved Lower Part of Village.

The upper Rondout valley is gradually clearing itself out of the coating of mud and slime which was carried down on the flood waters Sunday afternoon. Ellenville is still cut off from the lower Rondout valley so far as vehicular traffic is concerned and the only way to get to Ellenville by vehicle is by way of Wallkill, Pine Bush, Walker Valley and over the mountain or by way of Walden and Montgomery over to Wurtsboro. There is no means of crossing the Rondout creek at Napanoch, which at present is about twice as wide as normal at the spot where the main highway formerly crossed.

Napanoch may be reached from Kingston by the main highway as far as Wawarsing where cars are halted. By crossing the creek on foot and hiring another car at Wawarsing it is possible to get to Napanoch. As soon as the Wawarsing bridge is repaired it will be possible to drive through to Napanoch, but it will be some time before a temporary bridge at Napanoch can be erected.

Log Jam Saved Napanoch. Hard hit by the flood of Sunday, Napanoch is gradually getting back to normal. The village had a most fortunate escape from total destruction. Its salvation lay in the chance forming of a log jam between the pulp mill and the old saw factory.

Pulp wood, great logs some twelve feet in length, which were stacked above the pulp mill in huge piles, were swept down by the rushing water and lodged below the pulp mill in the depression between the pulp mill and the old saw factory.

This chance dam blocked a natural low spot in the creek bank and prevented the mad water from rushing over the bank at that point and tearing away the entire lower portion of the village. Had not this dam formed there would have been no chance for the village below that point for it would have been swept before the water into the valley below.

The forming of the log dam diverted the waters from the Napanoch side of the creek down past the old saw mill and over to the Ellenville side of the creek. Striking the Ellenville bank of the creek, just below the old Young & Humphrey paper mill, the water gouged out a huge slice of the bank, ripped away the roadway which ran up on that side of the creek and tore it way through the bank, flooding the country to a depth of several feet. The water ran up to the first floor of the school building and swept through residences in that vicinity.

Bridge Lies on Flats. Tearing away at the bank below the Young and Humphrey mill the creek rapidly made a new channel through which the flood waters were carried away clean and swift. The highway bridge was carried away clean and swift. The highway bridge was carried away clean and swift.

The house which stands between the school house and the road leading up to the Young & Humphrey mill was undermined and the porch carried away. One-third of the house hangs in the air without support. Wednesday the owner was busy shoveling mud and debris out of the cellar. Up stream where the road has disappeared there are huge holes several feet deep and many feet wide. Several houses along the road were swept by the water.

Little Damage in Upper Village. In Napanoch village the lower part of the town suffered from water but the villagers are fortunate that the damage was not greater. Up the hill near the saw factory is located the Kelder store. There Mr. Kelder said he suffered no damage other than water in the cellar. Had not the log jam formed this property without a doubt would have been swept clean. Higher up the hill the village escaped with but little water damage.

The concrete dam running across the creek from the saw factory to the Young and Humphrey mill was carried away clean and the only thing left to mark its site is a concrete pier at the saw factory. The log dam some four or five feet high which stood below at the old Krist mill is also cleaned out.

Below in the valley toward the railroad tracks there is evidence of the flood waters. Hay and crops are soaked but the water is gradually running off and there is to be seen all kinds of refuse, farm implements and small farm buildings which the flood carried down on its crest.

The flood water instead of sending its entire force to the village of Napanoch was diverted by the log jam to the Ellenville side of the creek and it is on that side of the creek that the deep gulches are washed out.

Relief Sent to Hamlets. Relief has been sent to the small hamlets up the Rondout valley where the residents were in immediate need of food. In several of the small hamlets the entire stock of provisions of the residents was either washed away or soaked be-

Smith Talks on Government Cost

No Particular Party Blamed for Existing Conditions, He Says in Syracuse Speech—Favors Reor- ganization of County and Town Governments.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP).—After his second speech since he was notified of his selection as Democratic presidential candidate, Governor Smith today was the central figure of a gathering of state politicians here to name a new party chairman and also of the daily throng that is turning out for the New York state fair.

A meeting of the Democratic committee was called for early in the day formally to ratify the selection of M. William Bray, of Utica, as chairman to succeed Lieutenant Governor Edwin Corning, resigned. Governor Smith had expected to attend, but had declared he would have nothing to say on state politics at this stage of the game. Behind the scenes there had been some talk that an entire state ticket would be discussed, but this could not be confirmed.

An appearance at the state fair later in the day, with a brief, non-political speech depending on the weather, was all that confronted the governor before his return to Albany tonight to spend the rest of the week and some of the next on matters of state. His presidential campaign plans still are indefinite and he insists he will have nothing to reveal about his speech-making tour until one of three distinct routes mapped out for him is finally chosen.

National Issues Not Discussed. Addressing several hundred officials of New York state farm organizations last night at the Onondaga Golf and Country Club, Governor Smith adhered to his promise not to discuss national issues and the farm question from a wide viewpoint. He confined his talk of half an hour to costs of local governments and an appeal for a reorganization of town and county control groups to bring about a reduction of taxes and overhead.

The affair was the annual "farm dinner" given by Jerome D. Barnard, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard, and the governor spoke after Governor Gore of West Virginia, Commissioner Lowell of the tariff commission, who is from New York, and a number of state farm leaders.

The governor recalled having told a group of farm leaders several years ago that he knew "what is the matter with agriculture as well as everybody else around the table," but that he did not know "how to cure it." He was talking of state conditions at the time and he also recalled having said he was open to suggestions, was "willing to sit down with anybody who does know how to cure it and help work it out," and if it required legislation, recommendations of a committee would assist matters.

Blames County Patronage. He blamed no particular party for the situation he thought should be remedied, but asserted the nucleus of the trouble lay in county patronage.

"The way to control the mounting cost of government is to attack the causes of it," he said. "You will never do it by talking about the size of the appropriation bill."

Stabilization of the state government he emphasized as the next "great step required to be taken" in New York in order to prevent the "evermounting increase in cost in the localities, by reorganization of the counties, by an overhauling of the town system of government, by the reduction of overlapping positions and duplication and waste of time, money and energy."

"BLIND PIG" VICTIM MAY BE ITALIAN MARQUIS

Montreal, Ont., Aug. 30 (AP).—The Montreal Gazette today says that members of the Italian community here who knew the Marquis Luigi intimately assert that he and Luigi Patricia, 60, who was shot in his Berger street "blind pig" eight days ago, were the same person.

The man died Saturday, and notices appeared in local newspapers announcing the sudden death of the Marquis on the same day.

The Marquis, son of the late Marquis and Marchioness De Luigi of Naples, has been in Montreal since 1912, the Gazette says, having left his native land because of the enmity of certain court societies there.

The Marquis came to the United States, but after some difficulties with the American immigration authorities he came to Canada, where he became a citizen.

Two men are awaiting preliminary hearings on a charge of killing the man known as Patricia and another named Capozzella, who was in the establishment acting as a waiter.

For a time these people were in great need of the necessities of life, but rescue parties have taken care of the immediate needs and so far as is known there is no suffering. The work of rebuilding small bridges is being rushed and work is completed food supplies will be taken in and the work of rebuilding and becoming re-established will be hastened.

Any case of need will be promptly taken care of by the Red Cross which is cooperating in every way to relieve the situation. No additional loss of life has been reported.

Fair Weather Forecast For Big Picnic Friday

With Jupiter Pluvius on a two days' strike and old Sol smiling through again, arrangements are all completed for the big Farm and Home Bureau-Chamber of Commerce Picnic Friday.

The weather forecast for the day is fair and cooler. The hammer and the saw have been busy all day at Forsyth Park erecting booths for the various exhibits and refreshment stands, and the Home Bureau reports that everything is all ready to serve the big crowd with all those delectable eats that have been a marked feature of all previous picnics.

Reports from over the county are favorable regarding attendance. Waters are down, highways are fast shaping themselves for travel and everybody is ready for the event to which they have looked forward for the last year.

Mrs. Maxwell, of Kingston, has charge of the coffee booth and will be assisted by the ladies from Stone Ridge. Mr. McFague, of Kingston, has taken over the ice cream and soft drink concession. He will be assisted by Mrs. H. M. Eppes, of Accord, vice-chairman of the Home Bureau.

Rest Tent for Ladies. A rest tent for women and children will be maintained on the grounds. A cot and chairs will be there for use at all hours and ladies attending are cordially invited to use the tent at any time.

Ticket Booths. Booths for the sale of tickets are being erected near the pavilion. All foods purchased under the pavilion must be paid for with tickets. The ice cream and soft drink concession will handle cash only.

Everything is in readiness for the usual big day, and large groups from all over the county are planning to be here to enjoy a good old-fashioned time.

IN ITALIAN HAIL STORM

Rome, Aug. 30 (AP).—Nine bodies have been recovered from the wreckage of dwellings in the region between Monza and Levano, devastated by a furious hail storm yesterday. More than 100 persons were injured.

AGED ELLENVILLE NEGRO
SAYS FLOOD WAS WORST

Brooks Osterhout, ninety-year-old Ellenville negro, who recalls working on the first large bridge across the Rondout at Napanoch in 1878, and who has seen three other bridges swept out by floods in the fifty years since then, says Sunday's flood was the worst in his memory. The bridge carried out Sunday was the fourth built there since 1878, each succeeding span having been built higher and heavier.

Forty-two members of the corps have so far indicated their willingness and ability to attend the national convention parade in San Antonio. While sufficient money is not yet in the fund to send this many, it is expected that additional subscriptions will come in so that the entire drum corps may go.

The local drummer boys will board special Pullman cars attached to the New York Central train leaving Rhinecliff at 5 p. m. on Thursday, October 4. Standard Warranty for Pneumatic Tires and Tubes

Every pneumatic tire of our manufacture bearing our name and serial number is warranted by us against defects in material and workmanship for the life of the tire. If at any time the tire fails because of such defects, we will either replace the tire or make good the mileage guaranteed on the pneumatic tire.

Look for this Warranty at your local dealer's service station.

This announcement, issued simultaneously in all parts of the country on August 16, met with an instant response from car owners and tire merchants alike.

No man who reads this will have failed to see similar announcements in the windows of tire stores—copies of the warranty displayed on dealers' walls—newspaper advertisements by individual manufacturers and by dealers confirming the policy.

For it is the voice of the industry, representing the producers of over 95% of the tires made in America.

It is the acceptance of full responsibility for the merit of their product by manufacturers who have learned that real quality means more to their customers than definite mileage guarantee.

Years ago these standard manufacturers discontinued the outworn practice of guaranteeing a definite number of miles in order to sell their tires.

As a selling inducement the so-called "mileage guarantee" was inevitably pushed beyond all reasonable bounds. It resulted in unjustified allowances to the unscrupulous driver who abused his tires and misrepresented his mileage, thus penalizing the careful driver who took care of his tires and was honest in his claims.

With its passing, all tire users felt the benefit at once in lower tire costs. Today you pay less for tires than ever before in history. Few, if any commodities, show so steady a reduction in prices.

The art of tire building has improved as well, until the casing and tube you buy today can be counted on to carry you more miles than was thought possible even so short a time as five years ago.

The unlimited guarantee of quality is the natural outcome; the warranty against defects for the life of the tire is a final expression of the manufacturer's confidence in his product—

—a guarantee broader in its protection to the individual yet fairer in its operation to all than anything ever offered to the car-owning public.

WIDESPREAD LOCAL SERVICE
THE HUNDRED THOUSAND DEALERS widespread throughout the country who handle the standard tires named above and who display this warranty, add a further value to your purchase in the service they render locally for your immediate convenience. . . .

—inspecting and demonstrating
—checking inflation
—checking wheel alignment
—maintaining regular service
By enrolling themselves in these expert facilities, our owners have secured maximum mileage from their tires. The workmanship of the tire-builder and the services of the tire dealer are thus linked together in support of the manufacturer's warranty.

Hayes Drowned In River Wednesday

East Union Street Youth, Buckhead on the Hudson, Fell From Barge at Tompkins Cove Wednesday Morning.

William Hayes, 22, of 211 East Union street, was drowned at Tompkins Cove on Wednesday morning about 5 o'clock when he fell from a stone barge into the Hudson river. The youth was employed as a deck-hand by the Cornell Steamboat Company on the tug William N. Barker.

Hayes was injured after the barge, which was taken from the tow, had been berthed at Tompkins Cove. How the youth came to fall from the boat is not known. Word of his death was received here Wednesday afternoon from the New York office of the towing company.

The youth is the son of Irving and the late Mary Murphy Hayes, and besides his father is survived by two uncles, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, and Michael Murphy of this city, and an aunt, Mrs. Katherine Carlton of 211 East Union street, with whom he made his home.

Local Dry Agents Make Seizures

Federal agents working out of the local enforcement office on Fair street were busy during the last three days, making three seizures during that time.

Tuesday a 150 gallon still was seized in a barn on the property of J. Yankelowitz, Hillside avenue, Monticello. No one was on the premises at the time of the seizure. The agents found 20 barrels of mash, a 150 gallon still and equipment and 50 gallons of finished product. The still had been used to make alleged rye whiskey and stillwater, a Jewish beverage used at holiday times. The 1,000 gallons of mash were destroyed and samples taken of the stuff.

On Wednesday afternoon 35 halves of alleged beer were seized by the agents on Prison Alley, Hudson, in a garage used for storage purposes. Thomas Finn was arrested on a charge of possession and the stuff was destroyed after samples had been taken. Finn was held for a hearing before U. S. Commissioner A. C. Connelly here on September 5, at 10:30 o'clock.

Thursday morning at 7 o'clock the agents were around in time to pick up Leo Muskin of 566 Columbia street, Hudson, who was driving a motor truck loaded with alleged high power beer, a mile north of Athens ferry. He was charged with possession and transportation and brought to Kingston where he was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner A. C. Connelly and held in $1,000 bail. The truck and contents were brought to Kingston and taken to the government storehouse.

Find 12 Dynamite Sticks in Theatre

Chicago, Aug. 30 (AP).—Enough dynamite to destroy a city block was found last night in the Parthenon Theatre, Berwyn, where earlier in the day a powder bomb had blasted a big hole in the wall.

A large audience was in the movie house when authorities, investigating the day bombing, found 12 sticks of dynamite, bound tightly together under a stairway. It first was believed that this was a new attempt to destroy the building, but investigation showed that the dynamite had been connected with the powder bomb but had failed to explode. Fulminating caps were attached to each stick.

Dimension among stockholders of the theatre, which is in the hands of a receiver, was one of the things police say offered itself as a possible motive for the bombing. A year ago a bomb, shipped to the theatre in a trunk, exploded backstage.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Raxall Ordette has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lax, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit of over increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Raxall Ordette at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c 10-day at the nearest Raxall Drug Store.

Cattle Sensed Flood Danger

Farmers of the Rondout valley flood area believe that while animal life undoubtedly suffered heavily this item will not figure as largely in the damage estimated as others. Cattle pastured on lands near the river sensed the flood and sought higher points.

A valuable bull owned by John M. George, Eureka cattle dealer, reared and plunged while five feet of water passed through its stall, but the animal has suffered no harm from its experience.

Chickens were probably the only animals that had little chance to escape the ravages of the flood. It is said one farmer of Napanoch lost a flock of 1,700, all he had in the world.

LIBRARY BENEFIT WAS SUCCESSFUL

The Woodstock Library benefit movies held at the Firemen's Hall Monday night proved very successful. The McLean brothers showed "The Tempest," two shows, to crowded houses. Fifty people were turned away because of lack of seat room. The net proceeds, reported by C. G. Schrader, library director-president, were over $100 which was divided equally between the local library and the movie house managers. The public is thanked for its generous cooperation with the library which performance which resulted in a substantial increase in the finances for their library maintenance.

THE IRRIGATED DISTRICTS.

A report of the Department of the Interior shows that the settlers on the various irrigation projects under the Bureau of Reclamation paid back more money to the government during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928, than during any previous year. The increase is said to be due to better yields and fair prices. By paying a rental for water, the irrigation farmers help to reimburse the original cost of the projects, and there is a direct relationship between seasonal prosperity and the payments made. It appears that there are 24 irrigation projects in operation, with a total of 38,000 farms and a farm population of about 150,000. Adding the population of the towns in the districts, the total of persons directly or indirectly interested in irrigation becomes more than half a million persons.

Comment of interest in this connection reads: "So long as the farmers had to pay the Government on the basis of the cost of construction and maintenance they found themselves often unable to meet the charges. The reason was that the actual cost of establishing the projects exceeded the original estimates and resulted in a disproportion between the potential revenue from the lands brought under cultivation and the original investment. In order to correct this it was arranged to establish for each project a rate based on the actual yield per acre over a period of years. The increased revenue from the settlers this year is partly due to the fact that this new system has made it easier for the farmers to pay. If good years continue, it will be possible ultimately to reduce the debt of the farmers, although the people will never be reimbursed for the losses, running into millions, due to economic development of some of the irrigation projects."

President von Hindenburg, who was an old man when he commanded the German armies in the World War, is going to hunt chamois in the Bavarian Alps as usual. That involves strenuous mountain-climbing, calling for endurance of toll and cold usually associated only with youth. It calls, too, for a steady hand and clear eye. Hindenburg has them at 80. Meanwhile Thomas Gallagher, an American railroad man living comfortably on a retirement pension at the age of 100, announces that he wants to marry again if he can find "the right kind of a red-headed girl". Gallagher is active mentally and physically. He indulges in two recreations—takes long daily walks with a black-thorn stick that has been in the family for 200 years, and then reads all night. Evidently old age "ain't" what it used to be.

One of the national party chairmen remarks that in 1920, for every 100 voters who went to the polls there were 55 who stayed away, and in 1924 even the winning presidential candidate, with a tremendous majority, received little more than one-fourth of the whole qualified vote. Here is good ground for the appeal made for a bigger vote in 1928. There are estimated to be 56,000,000 eligible voters now. The campaign is attracting more interest, from more different classes of citizens, than some recent national campaigns did. Facilities for learning about candidates and issues are better than ever before. Big interests are involved, going home to every American. There should be a more adequate polling of votes.

The latest intervention of the Federal Government to protect one of its reckless "enforcement" slayers is concerned with the case of James McGuckin, who at Hoboken shot and killed a longshoreman caught landing with two bottles hidden under his shirt. Witnesses say the man threw the bottles away in the hope of destroying evidence, but McGuckin says the bottles were thrown at him and this enormity provided just cause to

Woodstock Has Special Exhibit

Fourth summer showing trained by All-Woodstockers. Have Made Pleasing Don—Some Artists and Their Work.
 By F. G. Clough.

The fourth and special exhibition of drawings, water colors, etchings, lithographs and crafts at the gallery of the Woodstock Art Association is drawing large crowds of visitors to the gallery in the center of Woodstock village each day.

In this show there are over one hundred and fifty pieces on exhibit; it is one of the largest shows ever held at the association's popular gallery rooms; immediately on stepping into the gallery one feels that here is something assembled at last which looks like serious and finished work. Perhaps many of the exhibitors are more at home in the mediums represented—surely these work demands attention.

Among the water colors is work by E. B. Winslow which shows easy and direct technique; Paul Robland has a lightness of touch and a ready facility in this medium; Austin Mecklin's water colors have high color, a modern vigor; Harry Gottlieb has some fine landscape (this artist is doing better work this season than ever before); Eva Bernstein exhibits a landscape in blue and greens, a realistic picture; H. Hohnhorst shows some Bermuda scenes in water color.

Other pieces one cannot neglect to mention are Bertha Krauss's lithographs and dry prints, titled "High Yellow" and "Smoky Shell"; Jo Cantine has drawings; A. Heckman has both etchings and some very excellent drawings that seem among the best in the exhibit; Wilhelm has done a nude in charcoal, also some buildings; from France have come several faithful drawings by Neil Ives, sincerely completed; W. S. Bronson's highly designed, fantastically colored drawings stand alone for their technical efficiency; Eugene Gershov shows colored drawings; line drawings by Rollo are swift studies; there is a vigorous figure by Thurn, a pen and ink by Pamela V. Brown, a wood interior in wash drawing by Emil Hastings, and finally, a drawing of Ganso by Bloch (Ganso is the artist whose nudes in the same show deride all conventions).

Mary Holland used another local subject (Rivard Smith) for pencil sketches; Rudolph Tandler has a male nude in pencil, a strong piece of work; Polly Eddy shows a distinctive drawing; Eugene Speicher shows two landscapes in oil, heavy, moody subjects, seemingly lacking that clarity he obtains in his valuable portraits; Henry Mattson shows a still life in oil.

Other artists not to be neglected are C. E. Linden, Mary Green, E. Wilson, Lucile Blanche, Arnold Blanche, Ernest Fiene, Herman Menzel, Grace Van Ness Hays, and Rosella Hartman.

Sculpture is represented by Paul Fiene with a smooth-surfaced bronze figure, and by Eugene Gershov who has sculpted a figure in alabaster.

The whole show is representative of the best work being done by the artists at Woodstock; the drawings, water colors and other more ready mediums, perhaps show their talents off to better advantage than oil paints—certainly here is an exhibit that no man can approach with derision, a showing that demands a serious consideration from both critics and curious visitors. The exhibition is scheduled to hang until September 10. Daily people come in from New York, Kingston, from other eastern art colonies. Miss Mary Wilson, directress, is kept busy answering questions about the pictures, the artists. No catalog has been made of this special exhibit due to the numerous pieces which cover all the walls in the large gallery room. And the general reaction thus far has been that the Woodstockers have made a professional and pleasing bow to the public in this, their fourth exhibit of the 1928 summer season. It has been hinted that there will be another exhibition of paintings at the gallery after September 10 on account of the special interest taken in the exhibits this season, and to keep the association's work going into the autumn along with the other Woodstock colony activities this season.

RESTING THE BRAIN.

Every part of the body has its rest periods, notwithstanding that some parts seem to be working all the time.

The statement is made that the heart goes on all the time without a rest, and yet it not only has a rest between the first and the second beat, but it has an even longer rest again between the second beat and the first beat. In a cycle of ten counts, it uses four for the first beat, rests one count, uses two for the second beat, and then rests three counts before the first beat again.

However, the organ that runs all the machinery does need a complete rest, that is the brain, and the old idea that eight hours of sleep is the amount needed, is about right.

Dr. D. F. Fraser-Harris, in the Forum, writing on sleep, says that it is really remarkable that, once in every twenty-four hours we should lie down in a horizontal position and deliberately become unconscious for eight hours.

Sleep is the resting time of the brain. All organs work and rest alternately, but they do not all require to rest the same length of time.

As you know research men throughout the world are trying to find out just what causes sleep. There are a number of theories, but the one finding most favor is, that while you are awake, with the brain and body working you manufacture certain substances, and it is only by resting the brain and body by means of sleep that these substances can be got rid of.

These substances are known as fatigue products.

When these substances accumulate in sufficient quantity the brain demands a rest and you go off to sleep.

Perhaps you wonder why an individual who is using his brain all the time, as he does when he worries, frequently has difficulty in getting off to sleep.

It would seem that Nature demands that a certain amount of physical exercise or work be taken in addition to the mental work.

In institutions where overworked men and women are receiving treatment for nervous conditions, and where the physicians are very anxious to have these patients secure plenty of sleep, one method of inducing sleep is to go give them hard physical exercise and tire them out physically. This induces sleep in practically every case.

MODENA.
 Modena, Aug. 30.—The Ladies Aid Society of the Modena Methodist Church will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of the Misses Mary Ella and Emma Ward, Thursday afternoon, September 6.

There are a number of theories, but the one finding most favor is, that while you are awake, with the brain and body working you manufacture certain substances, and it is only by resting the brain and body by means of sleep that these substances can be got rid of.

These substances are known as fatigue products.

When these substances accumulate in sufficient quantity the brain demands a rest and you go off to sleep.

Perhaps you wonder why an individual who is using his brain all the time, as he does when he worries, frequently has difficulty in getting off to sleep.

It would seem that Nature demands that a certain amount of physical exercise or work be taken in addition to the mental work.

In institutions where overworked men and women are receiving treatment for nervous conditions, and where the physicians are very anxious to have these patients secure plenty of sleep, one method of inducing sleep is to go give them hard physical exercise and tire them out physically. This induces sleep in practically every case.

World Demands Service

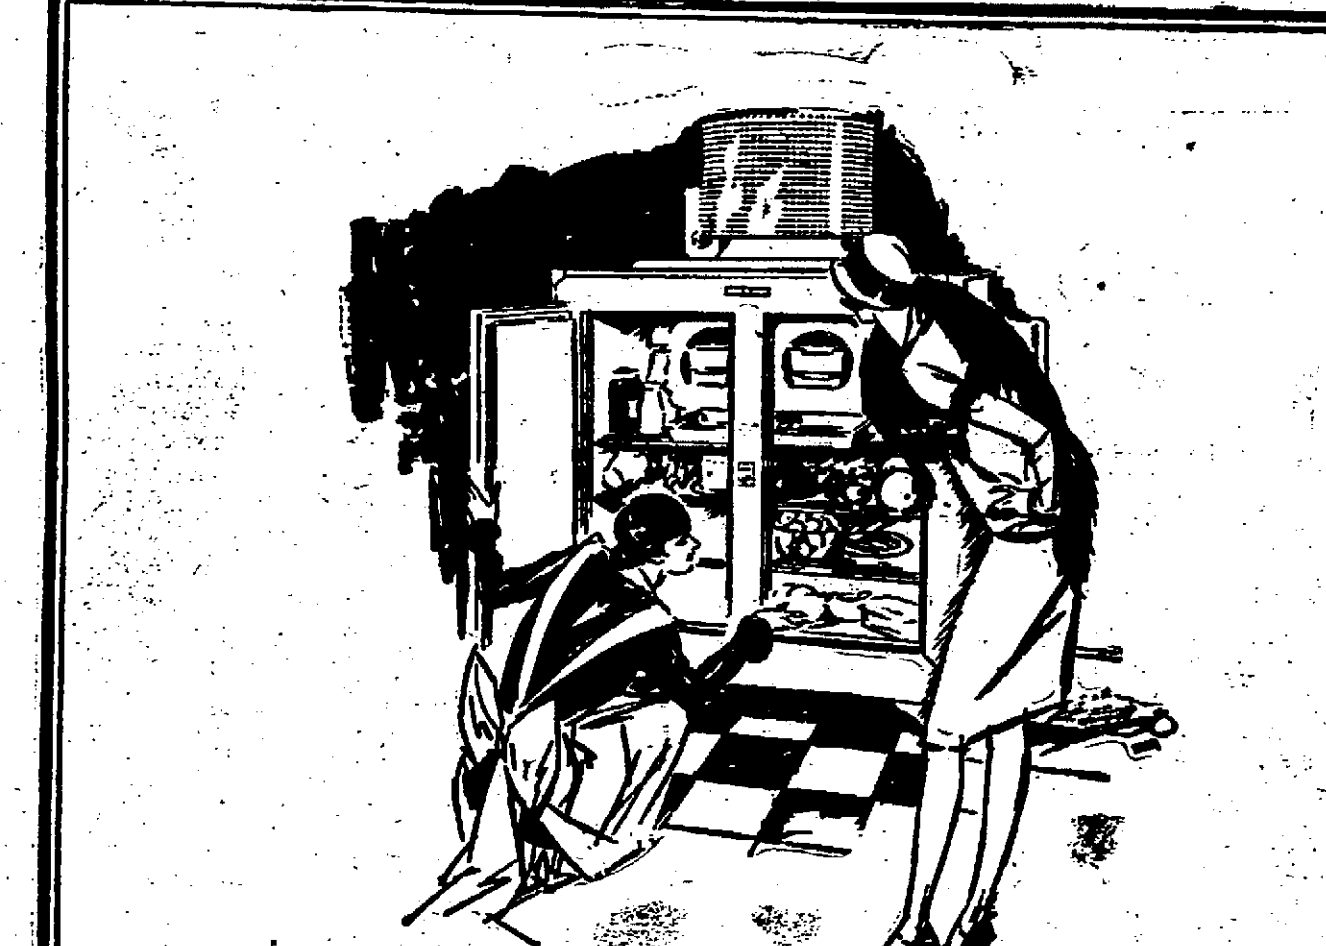

Virtue is never passive. Just doing nothing isn't being good. An egg that merely lies around gets rotten. The world doesn't need passive righteousness half as much as it needs active service, so be up and doing your bit.—Grit.

Wellingtons are riding boots with high legs reaching to the bend of the knees at the back, but covering the knee in front. They were named after the duke of Wellington, who is said to have introduced them in the British army in place of jack-boots.

The deposit of bituminous sands, commonly known as tar sands, on the Athabasca river and its tributaries in northern Alberta, Canada, covers an area of approximately 5,000 square miles of varying depth, density, and richness.

Size is Important

When you buy your General Electric Refrigerator you are buying for the years ahead. So, be doubly sure you get one large enough for future needs.

Just remember that the small sizes are for families of two or three, and that if there are four or more in your household you'll surely want the new Model 95.

This one is roomy yet occupies little floor space. It has food storage capacity that is not strained by week-end guests or parties. It makes available at one time 28 pounds of tinkling ice cubes. There's ample room for extra food so that you can market two or three times a week instead of every day.

The General Electric is the new-day refrigerator—"years ahead" in design and different from all others. All the mechanism is up on top, sealed in an air-tight steel casing, forever safe from dirt, forever worry-proof.

This quiet, automatic electric refrigerator never even needs to be oiled. It plugs in as simply as an electric flat-iron and is economical of current. It is easy to keep clean. Radiation from the top coils causes a constant upward air current that keeps dust from settling, while the legs which raise the whole refrigerator well above the floor permit ample "broom-room" underneath.

Come in and ask especially to see Model 95 which is now offered at a new low price.

Birge Harrison Exhibits Pictures

Don't Miss Woodstock Art Show
at West For Public—Has Lived in Kingston and is Well Known Here.

By F. G. Clough.

An exhibition that will interest many at Woodstock is the showing of eleven canvases by Birge Harrison at the Pandora art gallery, located in the Old Woodstock Inn annex building.

This exhibit is one of a series of one-man shows being put before the public throughout the summer season. It is interesting to note that many of the artists who have exhibited at Woodstock the past five years were students under Mr. Harrison at one time. Birge Harrison is one of the older artists at Woodstock, was teacher at the Art Students' League when that organization launched their summer school at Woodstock many years ago.

Among the pictures shown in the present exhibit is "Frozen Snow", a scene with the moonlight hallowing a wintry night. It is one of Mr. Harrison's best snowscapes, and his snowscapes have made him famous. If his painting seems to a few to be sentimentalized, it can also be pointed out that this quality, combined with a mastery, can be seen in the works of many masters in art.

There is "Winter in the Catskills", a large canvas with a complete spectrum in the delicate sky which is a true mood of nature on some occasions. "Summer Sea" shows a few rocks in the left front of a sea picture. "Golden Mass—Bayonne" is the largest picture, depicting a scene in color, rather yet full of artistry. "The Flowers" is of especial interest in belonging to Mrs. Birge Harrison, and one of the only (few) still lifes painted by Mr. Harrison; there is "Quebec in Winter", another snowscape with street and buildings, pedestrians dotting a sidewalk, a peace of new fallen snow over all; "Charleston Harbor—Morning" is a clear, fresh scene with water like glass holding sail boats ready to fly away. There were four pictures loaned, two by Mr. and Mrs. T. Parker and two by the artist's wife.

Birge Harrison's work is too well known to need comment; he has a wide reputation, is an author of a book on landscape teaching, is represented in many collections, is a teacher with a successful record; the showing of his work at Woodstock will attract many visitors to the exhibition rooms.

Mr. Harrison and his wife have spent several past winters in Kingston, where they have made a host of friends who will be glad to see the showing of his inimitable oil paintings. The exhibit will remain hung over Labor Day, after which there will be an exhibit at the same place of paintings by the late Enoch Vennard, whose untimely death at Woodstock this month cut short a prolific career as painter and teacher.

Fire Never Quenched

The "House of Everlasting Fire" is a small lake, Holmemaun, frequently filled with boiling lava, in the great sink of the Kilauea volcano in the eastern part of the island of Hawaii.

In any case don't forget to include "Canada Dry." This cooling, zestful beverage sparkles and bubbles over with good feeling and holiday spirit. It's a joyous drink and a thirst-quenching drink. It goes well at a picnic or a full-course meal. It has a subtle gingery taste, a dryness and refreshing flavor. It contains only the finest quality of Jamaica ginger and other absolutely pure ingredients. Drink all you want! There is no capicum (red pepper) in "Canada Dry" to give bite or unpleasant after-effect.

Be sure to have a good supply on hand over the holiday.

Do You Ride a Horse Car?

Horse-car days are by-gone days—representative of a slower moving and less efficient age, yet an age of hard hand labor and much drudgery in home and in business.

Lighting by kerosene lamps, sweeping with brooms, washing on scrub-boards by sheer force, cooking over blistering coal ranges, sewing by hand or on a tiring foot-treadle machine—all these things were contemporary with the old horse-car days, days, thank fortune, which have gone forever.

You now live in the Electrical Age, an age which allows you to drop the old deadening drudgery and to call to your service, Electricity, humanity's universal and versatile servant, who, at the push of a button, can make light work of what were heavy and slow tasks in those old horse-car days.

To take a single ride in the New Hudson Super-Six is to revise your whole knowledge of automobile values.

Here is brilliancy of performance that gives new luster and meaning to the word.

It is the master car at every issue. And in every performance asked of a motor it possesses ability beyond anything heretofore known.

In all the years your Hudson serves, you will hardly require its full capacity. You can scarcely encounter a situation to tax its limit of power.

This performance mastery gives innumerable advantages. For instance you travel faster within the speed limits. That is because you are away quicker. You pick up faster. You level hills with ease. You have smoothness that makes the long journey comfortable and free of fatigue.

And these qualities have won Hudson the greatest reception, sales and public acknowledgment in its history.

Recent News Of Woodstock

Woodstock, Aug. 29.—Announcement has been made that the Dutch Reformed Church will resume services after the vacation period in August with their regular Sunday services on September 2, with Sunday school at 10 a. m., and morning church worship at 11 a. m.

Prof. W. K. Gregory has purchased of S. B. Longyear, lots on Allen Hill, Neher street, adjoining land already owned by Mr. Gregory. Lewis Harder, Bearville, has sold to S. B. Longyear several lots along the Bearville highway just east of the Harder farmstead barn buildings.

The Woodstock Athletic Club has announced a gala week at the baseball grounds on the Rock City road, beginning August 25 and lasting until September 6. Afternoons and evenings throughout the week there will be special entertainment for the kiddies and grownups; admission to the grounds is free. It is understood that the local club has leased the grounds to a professional entertaining organization for the week.

Verna Tandler, popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Tandler, gave a piano recital on Sunday, August 26, at the Tandler home in Woodstock which was greatly enjoyed by the guests present. Miss Tandler was assisted by Clara Chichester in the Fifth Symphony, second movement, from Beethoven. She has studied with Clara W. Chichester; last year she studied with Leo Miller of St. Louis. The program included work by Composers Bach, Chopin, Schubert, Franz Liszt, Rachmaninoff, Mendelssohn and Debussy.

In spite of the heavy rain on Sunday afternoon, there was a large audience at the Maverick Music Hall to hear the recital by Colin McPhee and Georges Barrere. The rain on the roof interfered with the McPhee sonata for a time, but it slackened later and the audience was delighted with the program. Announcement was made that Mr. Barrere would appear on the program for September 2, along with other musicians.

The Woodstock Bulletin has planned a thirty-two page opus for the Maverick Festival day, a booklet with a special jacket design of the famous Maverick horse (seen at the entrance to the festival grounds), and special contributions by no less than twenty-three Woodstock writers. This Bulletin will also carry a full program of the festival program, a synopsis of the play for the evening's entertainment, and will have a special information booth on the grounds for out-of-town visitors.

30,000 miles

Greatest endurance record in history of transportation

BETWEEN July 21 and August 9, four Studebaker President Eights—all fully equipped, regular factory production cars—triumphed over the severest test ever given any automobile. This 30,000 mile run—a record distance achieved in record time—was conducted under the close and constant supervision of the American Automobile Association which certified each car to be a strictly stock model. In fact, all four motors and chassis were selected, not by Studebaker, but by A. A. A. officials who picked them at random from the assembly line at the Studebaker factory. If not chosen for this test, these regular factory Presidents would have gone out to dealers and you might have bought one of them at any Studebaker showroom.

Average 68 miles per hour

All four Studebakers—two President Eight roadsters and two President Eight sedans—completed 30,000 miles each at better than mile-a-minute speed.

Both roadsters completed 30,000 miles in less than 27,000 minutes, averaging better than 68 miles per hour for 19 days and 18 nights of continuous driving.

The two sedans averaged 63.99 and 64.15 miles per hour respectively for this tremendous distance.

The fastest thousand miles of each roadster was the thirtieth—71.67 and 69.65 miles per hour! Studebaker Presidents improve with use.

by American Automobile Association officials, not a single seal was broken during the 60,000 miles of running. These official seals were placed on the manifold, engine head and carburetor of each car.

Studebaker's new and exclusive ball bearing spring shackles went through the entire 120,000 miles of running without a single adjustment, without the addition of any lubricant, and were functioning perfectly at the end of the run.

What it proves

The Studebaker President's new record of 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes is a feat unapproached in the history of transportation. It proves beyond doubt or question that The President Eight is an expression of engineering genius without peer in the automotive world. It is evidence of the inexhaustible resources of Studebaker performance—of high quality materials, precision manufacture, skilled workmanship and rigid inspections.

Why be satisfied with less?

You can pay more than Studebaker prices, but in no other car at any price can you buy more stamina or more finely balanced performance than in Studebaker's President Eight. And back of every One-Price Studebaker is 76 years of manufacturing integrity. Don't wait until November 6 to select your President—DO IT NOW!

"Ideal Candidates" Are The Bunk Says Rogers.

Rogers Returns to Admit that Sex Appeal is an Issue.

"All you hear now is the Politics of both parties holding about what great Candidates they have. Al Smith is really Thomas Jefferson disguised in a brown derby and Hoover is Abraham Lincoln with a college education."

Among other comic observations, Will Rogers thus endeavors to reveal the "bunk" in the political campaign. In Life Magazine, where Rogers is running for President as the candidate of the "Anti-bunk" party, he says today:

"According to the Politicians,

Smith and Hoover both "Carry On The Glorious Tradition Of Our Party" because they're in favor of Motherhood, Virtue, the Constitution and anything else that seems to call for a word of praise, including the Farmer.

"As a matter of fact both Candidates were shoved down the Politicians' throats. And it was painful swallowing. I claim both these Candidates were nominated not because they were the ideal choices but because they were vote-getters. They are both able, fine men but they weren't chosen on that account."

"I heard the Republicans say a lot about Hoover (before he was nominated) that they wouldn't like to have repeated now. And a lot of prominent Democrats have certainly changed their opinions about Al since they found it was Smith or nothing."

"So the old gag you're hearing now that both men were put where they are by practically unanimous endorsement and approval of the whole party is the bunk. Half of each party is not crazy about their candidate. One is a Dry but wouldn't ent refuse Wet votes and the other is a Wet with a Dry vote complex.

"So the Wets in Pennsylvania will vote for Dry Hoover, because he's a Republican, and the Drys in Texas will vote for wet Smith because he is a Democrat."

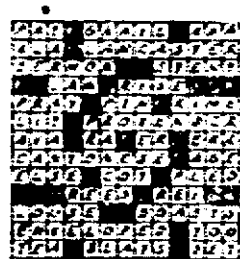

"And they won't vote the way they do because they approve the party's platform, or the party's Candidate, but because that's the way their Grandfather voted when Lincoln ran against Douglas. So the old bunk goes merrily on."

Airmen Pleased With Prospects

The fliers of the Progressive Airways Corporation have returned to this city after having completed plans for the finishing touches to the airport they are about to open in Kingston.

They expressed great disappointment in not being able to give the people the opportunity of seeing the parachute jump by Mr. De Bever, which was to have been held last Sunday but the inclement weather made this impossible. They promised, however, to secure this man's services in a few weeks and have the jump then.

The men in charge of the field are Lieut. Walter J. Prier, Frederic Brohan and James McLean and they are pleased with the results of their first few days' activities, having signed up several young men of Kingston and vicinity for the combined pilots and mechanic courses. Mr. Brohan said that with the cooperation of the people of Kingston and the business men alike, they hope to open a large port here and make it not only a part of the Progressive Airways, but a United States government port as well.

They have as yet not erected a hangar as they wish to find the success of their operations in Kingston before they do so, as the expense of the erection of their large hangar would be great. This airport if successful is promised to be one of the best in the country as this corporation is a large one in the field of aviation not only in this state but elsewhere.

FOREIGN MILITARY
MOVEMENT IN CHINA

Peking, Aug. 29 (AP).—An anti-foreign military movement led by Communists was reported today from Tainan-Fu, seat of the Shantung province provisional government since the Japanese occupied Tsinan.

Official dispatches said troops occupied the American and English mission buildings.

A letter received by the Methodist Episcopal mission here said the Tainan-Fu mission were occupied last week by Nationalist troops but the three American mission workers there were not disturbed.

The American legation has received no report in regard to the movement.

Robinson Ready
For Notification

Democratic Gainer at Hot Springs.
To Take Part in Notification Ceremony of Democratic Vice President.

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 29 (AP).—From the four corners of the nation Democrats were trooping today into this valley in the Ozarks for the formal notification of a southern senator.

They found a city bedecked for the occasion and nearly every one expressed surprise at the natural beauty of the little amphitheater in which the ceremonies will be held tonight.

The senator, in order to greet personally as many of the visitors as possible, had arranged to be up early and also had disposed of his business so as to have the entire day free to devote himself to welcoming his friends.

Preparations for the ceremonies were completed last night. Before retiring the senator spent a few minutes testing out the amplifiers which have been installed to carry his voice to the distant corners of the amphitheater and also well up the mountain sides where many are expected to gather.

From every hotel, bath house and office building floated red, white and blue streamers while the street was arched at intervals with banners, among them several bearing the inscription: "Our Joe, next vice-president."

Mrs. Robinson Also Busy.

Mrs. Robinson, to whom the senator gives much credit for his political success, also had arranged program to keep her busy to virtually the notification hour. She was up late last night welcoming many of the first arrivals and finally separated herself from a group of friends in the Arlington lobby with the remark: "I must go see that my husband is in bed."

Her program today included a reception by the Democratic women at Hot Springs to women members of the National Committee and the Committee of Notification. She also had a full list of engagements for the afternoon.

John J. Haskins, chairman of the Democratic national committee; Senator Peter G. Gerry, of Rhode Island, a member of the Democratic advisory committee and a host of other chieftains in the Democratic camp were scheduled to arrive in the city this morning.

Among others to arrive was Claude G. Bowers of New York, the party's keynoter at the national convention and the man selected to notify formally the senator of "his selection for second place on the ticket." But aside from those known nationally in the wigwags of the party, the great bulk of the gathering thousands were southerners, principally from the senator's home state.

To Arkansas the day is one of great importance. To the thousands of friends who for more than a quarter of a century have supported Robinson in his campaigns for public office the notification afforded an opportunity to show their esteem.

By special proclamation of Governor Harvey Parnell, the day is a holiday throughout the state in honor of the first native son ever to be accorded a place on a presidential ticket.

Crowd Yelled
For Mrs. Smith

Boys and Girls of 4-H Club Greet Governor's Wife With "Gang Yell" at State Fair at Syracuse.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP).—Quietly and unofficially Mrs. Alfred E. Smith last night beat her presidential nominee husband to the New York state fair, the purpose of the governor's visit to Syracuse.

While her husband was attending the farm dinner given by Jerome D. Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard, Mrs. Smith slipped out to the fair grounds, was quickly ushered to a seat in the grand stand overlooking the brilliantly lighted stage, and thoroughly enjoyed the vaudeville show and the elaborate display of fireworks.

With her were Mrs. William E. Kelley, wife of the Onondaga county Democratic leader; Mrs. Josephine O'Brien, a lifelong friend from New York, and Miss Rose Pedrick, secretary at the executive mansion in Albany.

Eight state police changed a way through the crowds walking in front of the deserted booths, drawing up their charge before the entrance to the grand stand.

At the entrance to the grand stand where the evening's entertainment was well under way before thousands, posted guards cleared a pathway through a delegation from the 4-H Club of the state as it was waiting to be ushered to seats.

4-H Gang Yell Given.

The leader of the farm boys and girls recognized the first lady of the state and quickly instructed his gang in a 4-H yell.

"Rah, Rah—4-H—Mrs. Smith—Mrs. Smith," came the greeting to the befurred women who descended from the limousine. Mrs. Smith looked hastily about her at the well-ordered rows of children, apparently thought they couldn't mean her, and quickly sought the shelter of the grand stand.

As the four women took their seats in the judge's stand, directly in front of the stage, four stalwart troopers took seats in four chairs behind. A few moments after the party had settled, two of the police rose quickly to their feet, and stared intently ahead. The state police stationed around the grand stand, who knew the identity of the black-clad woman in the judge's stand, were instantly on guard, ready for any emergency.

Chorus Girls in Silvery Tights.

But investigation showed that only a crowd of chorus girls, clad in silvery and skimpy tights, had appeared from behind the curtains and were stepping their steps noiselessly on the stage. There was a sudden and complete relaxation among the watchers in the stands as they realized that the personal guards were merely showing appreciation of what was billed as "Frisolitties Revue."

The party remained until the end of the performance, Mrs. Smith taking especial delight in the fireworks display.

Today she was invited as guest of honor at the annual luncheon given by the woman's committee of the state fair commission for the governor's wife.

Atharhacton Card Party.

The degree team of Atharhacton Rebekah Lodge will hold a card party in Mechanics' Hall on the evening of September 13. There will be prizes and refreshments. The public is invited.

Ethel Hertle Wins Ten Mile Swim

Twenty Year Old New York Swimmer Teacher Receives $10,000 Prize in Marathon Swim—Finishes Mile Ahead of Competitors.

London, Aug. 20 (AP).—Wearing a crown of champion woman long distance swimmer and richer by $10,000, the first prize in the 10-mile marathon swim, Ethel Hertle, 20 year old swimming teacher from New York, was undecided to whether she would compete against masculine stars next Wednesday for greater honors and bigger prizes.

Although she believes she could have gone five miles farther after winning the women's race yesterday, Miss Hertle is hesitant about pitting her strength against the 300 men entered in the open race over the 15-mile course. She showed yesterday that she was the best of the 52 entrants in the women's division by finishing a mile ahead of all but one of her competitors, Olive Gatterdam, the race, who gave the winner a struggle over every foot of the course, finishing the grind only 200 yards back and winning $3,600.

The New York girl took the lead on the first stretch of seven-eighths of a mile along the shore and held it until she climbed out of the water, swimming the distance in the first time of 5 hours, 34 minutes and 36 seconds. Miss Gatterdam was the only other swimmer to finish in less than six hours.

Struggle For Third Place.

Far behind the two leaders another struggle developed for third place. It ended with Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the English Channel, shut out of the money-winning places by a group of comparatively unknown swimmers. Third place and the $1,000 prize went to Ruth Tower of Denver, fourth and $600 to Jane Thoms of Terre Haute, Ind., and fifth and $400 to Mrs. Anna Dent of Westfield, Mass.

Struggling with cramps, contracted on the last lap, "Trudy" battled gamely on to finish sixth, determined to finish, although she knew she could not get in on the money.

Of the twenty swimmers who finished the race, all but four were from the United States.

About half a dozen of the girls shed their bathing suits soon after the starting pistol had barked. Two started without any raiment whatever, depending upon bathrobes until they plunged into the lake.

Racer Welcomes Visit to Kingston

Some of the old timers of Kingston have mentioned the fact, in the past few days that they recall the days over a score of years ago when Ralph DePalma was seen daily driving the Allen-Kingston cars of the country roads. Ralph would be seated in a little improvised bucket seat temporarily attached to the car. He tested all the cars before they left the factory.

DePalma is coming home to Kingston Labor Day, September 3, as the master driver of the dirt track, and will race at the Kingston Driving Park on that day. It is funny sometimes what a difference a few years make in a person's life. Although Ralph was always mechanically inclined, little did he expect in the testing days with the Allen-Kingston that he would return twenty years later to the same town, a world champion and be known as the "master driver of the dirt track." When he was "informed" by Ralph Hankinson, general manager of the Universal Auto Racing Association, that he was booked to race in Kingston on Labor Day, he wanted to have them cancel his appearance in Syracuse on the Saturday before Labor Day, but this could not be done. He expressed his desire of wanting to come to Kingston a few days before the scheduled day of the race, which would enable him to renew acquaintances with old friends and do a little home town visiting.

Ralph DePalma has gained an international reputation as a dirt track and speedway race driver, breaking records everywhere as he has climbed to the uppermost rung in the ladder of success in his chosen profession. Ralph this season is driving a Miller Eight Special which he has proved is even faster than anything he has ever driven in all the years of his career.

A bit of interest centered around Ralph's home coming is that his racing car will be on exhibition in the show room of Morton Lown's Graham-Paige agency on Sunday. It will probably be viewed by many as to get a close up of this car will be interesting to his admirers.

Picnic at Kripplough.

Kripplough Council, No. 39, Jr. O. U. A. M., will have their twenty-third annual picnic on Labor Day, Monday, September 3. The picnic will be held on the lawn of the hall, afternoon and evening. Music by Ellenville Band. Supper will be served in the hall and all kinds of refreshments sold on the grounds.

Expect Crowd at Woodcliff Bouts

Inclement Weather May be Only Drawback As All Boutists Are Complete—Local Bouters Ready to Put Up Curious Scramble Tonight.

Every detail, except the assurance of fair weather, is complete for a attractive card of bouts to be staged at the Woodcliff Park stadium, Poughkeepsie, tonight. A record attendance is expected to fill the 5,000 seats at the park for the scrap men announced seems to be showing. Should rain interfere the show will be held the next night.

The feature attraction of 10 rounds between Frankie "Kayo" Kouchina, who needs no introduction to local fans, and Babe McGorray, leading middleweight contender, promises plenty of action. A win for Kouchina will boost him considerably for his opponent has mingled with some of the leading middleweights of the country. Frankie kayoed 35 of 55 opponents; McGorray, 40 out of 65.

An interesting exhibition is expected from Jack "Red" Mosher of Newburgh and Billy LaDuke of New York in the eight-round semi-final. Mosher, who recently beat Joe Vondick in the local armory, is making a fine comeback after a recent rest and figures on scoring over LaDuke. The latter is a youngster in the game, but has a considerably broad knowledge of the fist art. He beat Al Ferone of Beacon at the last bout in Woodcliff Park.

Johnny Carpio of this city is in excellent shape for his scheduled six rounds with Sailor Silitca of New York. Carpio counts strongly on sinking the worthy seaman early in the fracas, which promises a thrilling exhibition.

Frankie Mierva of Boston and Tony Abruzzi of New York are slated for six rounds. Both men are fast, being members of the 115-pound class, and are expected to put up one of the fastest bouts on the card.

The curtain raiser of four rounds, which will start at 8:15 o'clock, will be between Charlie Fisher of this city and Jerry Samper of Poughkeepsie. Fisher has his punch dealers in good shape for a kayo, while Samper contends Charlie may count on leaving all the glory in the Bridge City.

It is expected the Kingston scrapers will have plenty of rooters for a number of fans from this city plan on seeing the show.

Gasco Lose to U.&D. Schillings

The U. & D. Schillings, after a long vacation due to inclement weather, resumed play Wednesday and gave the Gasco a fine trimming to the tune of 11-5 before a good size crowd at the Athletic Field. Walt Black's pitching and the Gasco's errors and errors of omission overpowered the White Sox by 6 to 2 at Shibe Park yesterday, the rampant Mackmen found themselves only two and one-half games behind the idle Yankees, while the Cardinals, raised out in Chicago, heard tidings of defeat for two of their challengers—the Pirates and the Giants.

The men of McKeehan led by a neat five and one-half games over Chicago as they moved into Pittsburgh today for the start of a crucial series of which the National League will see many in the coming fortnight if not the next four weeks.

The Pirate threat at this moment is the most serious the Cardinals face. They must put it down by at least the odd game in seven to be played in the next two weeks, or face the threat of disaster.

As the National League situation works its way toward a possible solution in games involving the western contenders against one another, the Yanks and the A's set sail through softer schedules leading up to their big series against each other on the banks of the Harlem just before mid-September. The challengers enjoy some edge in this duel in that they are involved eight times against the Red Sox and only three times against Washington. The Ruppert-rifles face exactly the opposite schedule—eight games with Washington and only three with Boston.

The Teams Compared.

The cast assembled by Bulky Harris is not great shares of a ball team. But the Senators nevertheless are leading the fight for that odd first division berth not already sewed up, and are some better than the Red Sox, one must admit. The fortune of the schedule should bring the Mackmen to the Yankee Stadium for that great Sabbath double-header on September 9 very close to the champions, if not even with them. All then should depend upon those four games in Harlem—and the "law of averages" certainly is due to swing a little help to Connie Mack, who has won only five games in eighteen against the Huguenot to date.

The Athletics defeated the White Sox yesterday by slugging Ted Lyons hard in every crisis. They were more methodical than spectacular in making the most of practically every opening. George Waberg seemed unsteady at the start permitting the White Sox to score two runs on five hits, including Hunsfeld's homer, in the first four rounds. Connie took the Rube out to let Cobb bat in the fourth, and Eddie Rommel held Chicago hitless over the rest of the route.

Lyons took his game as an example to prove it is possible to be thrown out at home in an attempt to score from third on a single—even with two out and no force play at the plate. Al Simmons ferried Hunsfeld's second hit to Cochrane in time to retire Mr. Lyons on a close play. Lena Blackburne and cabinet dissented and Lena talked his way to an afternoon off.

In other American League engagements, the Browns made it four straight over the Red Sox, winning by 4 to 3, and the Indians slammed the ambitious Tigers, 3 to 5. George Burns got two homers, and Marty McManus one.

Rain Prevented Gala Game.

The Cardinals and the Cubs made every effort to play the gala game of the National League afternoon, but a torrent descending upon Wrigley Field made this impossible. Plans are under way to play this one off in Chicago September 5 when both teams have an open date.

Ben Cantwell, traded to Boston in the Genewick deal, came back to the Polo Grounds to lead other former Giants in making it three straight over the home boys, 8 to 3. The Clan McGraw won home run honors on circuit drives by Lindstrom and Jackson, but was in the race for the decision at no time after the third round, which witnessed a brutal assault upon Vic Aldridge and Fred Fitzsimmons for five runs.

The defeat was the seventh straight for the Giants, and their ninth in their last ten games. It dropped them a fraction of a point behind the Cubs who moved up into second place by half a game without playing. The Clan McGraw, top, is in a virtual tie with the Reds, also idle yesterday.

Even though shut out by the Phillies by 4 to 0 at Pittsburgh yesterday, the Pirates are only half a game behind the Giants and the Reds, one full contest worse than the Cubs, and five and one-half to the rear of the Cards. If the seven imminent Pittsburgh-St. Louis games are important to the Cards, they are vital to the Buccaneers. The Cards need four out of seven. The Pirate crew must clean up almost all of them to get anywhere.

fine shape to tackle the Pan-Am, who claim that they are in tip-top form. The keen rivalry that exists between the Sox and the oiler will be the means of furnishing local fans with a stellar contest, it is contended.

The proceeds of the game will be handed over to the American Legion Drum Corps to help that body of musicians attend the national convention in San Antonio, Texas, in the fall. Neither of the teams will receive any compensation for their services. Proceeding the game the drum corps will drill and render selections for the attendance, which is expected to be large.

BLUE SOX PRACTICING HARD FOR PAN-AM GAME

The Blue Sox held a practice session at Hasbrouck Park Wednesday evening in preparation for their Sunday game with the Pan-Am's at the Fair Grounds. Coach Dick Johnston, aside from explaining a number of tricks of the national sport, put the Sox through a valuable workout. Another will be held at the park this evening. Dick Johnston's team will be in

Tagging Major League Bases

The Athletics persist at their task of blasting away the Remnants of Yankee lead, once so handsome, but National League contenders are coming upon rocky paths. After overpowering the White Sox by 6 to 2 at Shibe Park yesterday, the rampant Mackmen found themselves only two and one-half games behind the idle Yankees, while the Cardinals, raised out in Chicago, heard tidings of defeat for two of their challengers—the Pirates and the Giants.

The men of McKeehan led by a neat five and one-half games over Chicago as they moved into Pittsburgh today for the start of a crucial series of which the National League will see many in the coming fortnight if not the next four weeks.

The Pirate threat at this moment is the most serious the Cardinals face. They must put it down by at least the odd game in seven to be played in the next two weeks, or face the threat of disaster.

As the National League situation works its way toward a possible solution in games involving the western contenders against one another, the Yanks and the A's set sail through softer schedules leading up to their big series against each other on the banks of the Harlem just before mid-September. The challengers enjoy some edge in this duel in that they are involved eight times against the Red Sox and only three times against Washington. The Ruppert-rifles face exactly the opposite schedule—eight games with Washington and only three with Boston.

The Teams Compared.

The cast assembled by Bulky Harris is not great shares of a ball team. But the Senators nevertheless are leading the fight for that odd first division berth not already sewed up, and are some better than the Red Sox, one must admit. The fortune of the schedule should bring the Mackmen to the Yankee Stadium for that great Sabbath double-header on September 9 very close to the champions, if not even with them. All then should depend upon those four games in Harlem—and the "law of averages" certainly is due to swing a little help to Connie Mack, who has won only five games in eighteen against the Huguenot to date.

The Athletics defeated the White Sox yesterday by slugging Ted Lyons hard in every crisis. They were more methodical than spectacular in making the most of practically every opening. George Waberg seemed unsteady at the start permitting the White Sox to score two runs on five hits, including Hunsfeld's homer, in the first four rounds. Connie took the Rube out to let Cobb bat in the fourth, and Eddie Rommel held Chicago hitless over the rest of the route.

Lyons took his game as an example to prove it is possible to be thrown out at home in an attempt to score from third on a single—even with two out and no force play at the plate. Al Simmons ferried Hunsfeld's second hit to Cochrane in time to retire Mr. Lyons on a close play. Lena Blackburne and cabinet dissented and Lena talked his way to an afternoon off.

In other American League engagements, the Browns made it four straight over the Red Sox, winning by 4 to 3, and the Indians slammed the ambitious Tigers, 3 to 5. George Burns got two homers, and Marty McManus one.

Rain Prevented Gala Game.

The Cardinals and the Cubs made every effort to play the gala game of the National League afternoon, but a torrent descending upon Wrigley Field made this impossible. Plans are under way to play this one off in Chicago September 5 when both teams have an open date.

Ben Cantwell, traded to Boston in the Genewick deal, came back to the Polo Grounds to lead other former Giants in making it three straight over the home boys, 8 to 3. The Clan McGraw won home run honors on circuit drives by Lindstrom and Jackson, but was in the race for the decision at no time after the third round, which witnessed a brutal assault upon Vic Aldridge and Fred Fitzsimmons for five runs.

The defeat was the seventh straight for the Giants, and their ninth in their last ten games. It dropped them a fraction of a point behind the Cubs who moved up into second place by half a game without playing. The Clan McGraw, top, is in a virtual tie with the Reds, also idle yesterday.

Even though shut out by the Phillies by 4 to 0 at Pittsburgh yesterday, the Pirates are only half a game behind the Giants and the Reds, one full contest worse than the Cubs, and five and one-half to the rear of the Cards. If the seven imminent Pittsburgh-St. Louis games are important to the Cards, they are vital to the Buccaneers. The Cards need four out of seven. The Pirate crew must clean up almost all of them to get anywhere.

fine shape to tackle the Pan-Am, who claim that they are in tip-top form. The keen rivalry that exists between the Sox and the oiler will be the means of furnishing local fans with a stellar contest, it is contended.

The proceeds of the game will be handed over to the American Legion Drum Corps to help that body of musicians attend the national convention in San Antonio, Texas, in the fall. Neither of the teams will receive any compensation for their services. Proceeding the game the drum corps will drill and render selections for the attendance, which is expected to be large.

Industrial Home Children Picnic

Enjoy Outing at Watson Hollow Inn as Guests of Kingston Shriners—Refreshments, Games, Amid Beautiful Surroundings.

After distressing news of floods and accidents, it is particularly pleasant to think of one perfect afternoon spent by thirty-five children who enjoyed a picnic at Watson Hollow Inn on Wednesday. It was the occasion of the annual picnic for the little folks of the Industrial Home, given by the Shriners of this city, with Samuel S. Brown in charge. The day was perfect for a picnic, nobody had to be left home because of sickness, as far as the children were concerned, and as always Mr. Brown had seen to it that there were lots of good things to eat besides the ride around the reservoir, full to overflowing at the spillway with water.

The picnic was to start off at 1 o'clock and the children did present a fine picture, all epic and span in great summer picnic, that summer picnic—minus floods, of course—with lots of fun and happiness. Most of them had their gaze fixed on the water, so that each child had a small American flag to wave from the shore and thus keep in line the several sides of the procession which otherwise might miss their way when other cars broke into the line. There were plenty of cars to take care of the youngsters, the mothers at the home Miss Baker, Miss Carroll with four real little girls, Mrs. H. Matthews, Miss Palmer, Miss H. H. Matthews, Miss Kather, and Miss O'Toole, the three Mrs. Frank Porter, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. M. H. Herzog, Mrs. Williams, Van Eten, members of the board of managers, a Freeman reporter, and most important of all the host, Mr. Brown, Mr. Standbrook, Mr. Herzog, Mr. Van Eten and Grand W. Retz, Shriners. Nothing escapes questioning eyes.

Nothing of special note ever escapes the bright, questioning eyes and minds of the little guests on these happy picnics, and the older people were kept busy answering puzzling questions about the sights along the road and many others, such as "What makes the sunshine so hot?" "Why do the mountains look blue?" "What becomes of the water after it goes over the spillway?" etc.

The hostess at the Inn and her assistants were all ready for the party, and it was not long before the children were invited to march two by two, to the music of a Victrola, onto the long flagstone porch where one long table was set for thirty-five hungry and expectant boys and girls. That porch was a picture before even the children sat down, with the blue painted chairs flanking either side of the table; blue plates and white napkins, also a glass of cold milk at each place and a bright yellow bon-bon and vases of white hydrangea blossoms as centerpieces. But it was even more of a picture when, having opened their bon-bons and put on the pretty paper caps, the children stood by their chairs and sang their customary "blessing."

Seldom have there been gathered together thirty-five healthy boys and girls anywhere who behaved better or who were more little men and women than those children on Wednesday's picnic and particularly at the table.

And what a feast they had. Besides the glasses full of milk, there were good, fat sandwiches, cutlets, ice cream and cake and mint candies, and there was plenty of everything.

Children Enjoy Games.

After everybody had had all they could eat, the children played about the grounds, under the supervision of Mr. Brown, who later grouped them as they had their picture taken. In the meantime, the ladies were served sandwiches, ice cream and cake and food drinks.

When it came time for all to find their places in the auto, the management of the Inn presented the house with a large fruit basket of apples good for apple sauce, but far from good for boys and girls to eat out of hand.

In addition to all this usual good time there were one or two other interesting incidents of the affair. Near Admiral Hixson arrived at the Industrial Home in time to see the children gather together and start gaily off in the cars, a spectacle which he greatly enjoyed. There was just one very disappointing feature of this year's picnic, and that was the fact that Mrs. Philip Elting, beloved president of the board of managers, who has been ill for some time, was not well enough to join the picnickers. But she was well enough to sit by the window at her home on Maiden Lane, so the procession of autos, filled with children and older people, started from the city that way and saluted their good friend and president, with much blowing of horns and waving of flags.

When the entire party reached the Home on the return trip, tired but happy, the children enthusiastically cheered Mr. Brown and the Shriners and thanked them for the very good time they had had.

NOTED PREACHER AT CLINTON AVE. M. E. CHURCH.

The Rev. John M. Versteeg, D. D., pastor of the Roseville M. E. Church of Newark, N. J., will be the preacher at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church Sunday morning. The Kingston congregation may deem it a privilege to hear the Rev. Mr. Versteeg for he is pastor of one of the largest Methodist Churches in the Newark conference. The Rev. Dr. Versteeg and family are spending the summer at West Hurley, where they have a summer home. The Rev. Anton Beza of Benson, Vt., will be the speaker at the evening service.

Bitten by a Copperhead.

On Sunday afternoon, August 12, a party including Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Slaughter of Babylon, Long Island, William Blake and Leon Woolsey were on the Undercliff road. Mrs. Slaughter, who was walking, stepped down from the road to gather some huckleberries, felt something pricking first one ankle, then the other. She believed it to be a briar, but looking down saw that she had stepped on a copperhead, which had bitten her on both ankles. The poison was sucked from the wounds and Mrs. Slaughter was taken to the City of Kingston Hospital, where she was treated with serum from New York. She was so far recovered that on Monday the past week she was taken from the hospital to the Blake home at Poughkeepsie.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Aug. 29 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets).

Lettuce prices further slumped on the New York wholesale market today. Supplies were in excess of trade requirements and the market situation at the close was decidedly dull and weak. State Big Boston sold at 25c @ $1.50, mostly 75c @ $1.00 per crate. Western iceberg brought $2.00 @ $4.00, mainly $3.00 @ $3.50.

Price changes on state cucumbers were few and small. Arrivals were moderate and the demand was fair. Jobbing sales on cucumbers were at 75c @ $1.25 per bushel basket. Dills brought $1.50 @ $2.25 and pickles, $2.00 @ $3.00.

The market for white cabbage was extremely dull and weaker. The output was very limited, possibly on account of the warm weather. Western New York Copenhagen cabbage, packed in sacks of approximately 50 pounds, peddled out at $1.25 @ $1.75.

Cabbage shipments from this state are steadily increasing. During the previous week 88 cars rolled to consuming centers.

Arrivals of Hudson valley pears were light. Good quality large, firm fruit sold well, but offgrade, ripe and small stock dragged. Bushel baskets of Clapp's Favorite and Bartlett pears peddled out at $1.50 @ $2.50, and barreled offerings from $4.00 @ $6.50.

Receipts of yellow onions were moderate. The demand was active with prices higher in a stronger market. Early morning business was transacted as high as $4.00 per 100-pound sack on western New York fine quality stock. Orange county consignments, however, were not attractive enough to command more than $3.25. Onion shipments for the whole country last week filled 524 cars, as against the movement of 639 during the same week last season.

Celery trading was exceedingly slow in a sluggish market. Sales varied greatly, owing to the wide range in quality. Stock in the rough, packed in two-thirds crates, brought $1.50 @ $2.50. Some extra fancy commanded more but inferior sold down to 75 cents.
